TORONTO FILM SCHOOL GRADUATION CEREMONY

NOVEMBER 12 2026

Toronto Film School

TODAY'S CEREMONY

TODAY'S CEREMONY

Welcome! Today's convocation ceremony celebrating our graduates is expected to last approximately two hours. We kindly ask that you stay in your seat for the duration of the ceremony, silence phones, and keep noise to a minimum, except when cheering for our graduates.

Each graduate will be invited to the stage for recognition and a photograph with Dr. Julia Christensen Hughes, President & Vice Chancellor of Yorkville University; Andrew Barnsley, President of Toronto Film School; and their respective Program Director.

Following the ceremony, there will be a light reception, where you will have the opportunity to socialize with your fellow graduates, faculty, family members, and friends.

Professional photos taken during the ceremony will be shared with you at a later date via email. The platform party will also be available for photos with family following the ceremony.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

The wearing of academic regalia is a tradition that has persisted since the Middle Ages. It was derived from the monasteries and wearing of clerical robes, and continued as universities and colleges were founded.

For the mortarboard, the tassel is worn to the left until graduation and is moved to the right during the ceremony. For photographs, the tassel should be worn on the right.

CELEBRATE WITH US

Share your graduation moments with us! Tag @torontofilmschool on socials so we can celebrate with you.

KEYNOTE ADDRESS

SHAMIER ANDERSON

Actor, Producer, Writer, and Director

His film work spans major studio fare and acclaimed independents, most notably in John Wick: Chapter 4 opposite Keanu Reeves as 'Tracker'. The film dominated the global box office upon its release, opening to a franchise-record $137.5 million worldwide. It shattered the saga's previous opening weekend record, ultimately grossing $447 million globally. It earned rave reviews and became the most successful installment of the franchise.

Anderson's other film credits include a leading role in Bruiser, which debuted at the Toronto International Film Festival (TIFF). Directed by Miles Warren, it holds a 100% Rotten Tomatoes score and was distributed by Hulu. His credits also include Bruised for Netflix alongside director and star Halle Berry; Stowaway for Netflix opposite Anna Kendrick and Toni Collette; and two films directed by Brad Furman: Tin Soldier with Jamie Foxx and Robert De Niro, and City of Lies with Johnny Depp. Anderson can also be seen in IFC's The Luckiest Man in America, opposite Paul Walter Hauser. Luckiest premiered at TIFF and is now streaming on multiple platforms.

On television, Anderson starred in Prime Video's Goliath alongside Billy Bob Thornton. He also led the acclaimed ensemble of Apple TV's expansive multi-season series Invasion, created by Simon Kinberg.

Most recently, Anderson headlined and executive produced the bold limited series Hate the Player: The Ben Johnson Story under his Bay Mills Studios banner alongside New Metric Media. A satirical reimagining of the rise and fall of disgraced, world-record-breaking Canadian Olympic sprinter Ben Johnson, the series is told through an exaggerated, comedic, and absurdist lens. It premiered on GameTV and Paramount+ for Canada in March of this year.

Anderson has had multiple films featured at TIFF and was previously named a TIFF Rising Star. He saw his directorial debut, Call Me Tim, premiere at the 2026 festival as part of their Short Cuts Programme. Call Me Tim is a mockumentary-style comedy that Anderson also wrote, produced, and starred in.

Anderson is the co-founder of The Black Academy, an organization launched to celebrate Black talent in Canada. He also co-created The Legacy Awards on CBC, the first nationally broadcast awards show honouring Black Canadians. This multi-Canadian Screen Award-nominated and award-winning ceremony has since evolved into The Legacy Lounge, an in-depth conversation series spotlighting honourees and the legacies they are building. The four-part series premiered in full on CBC Gem, followed by a weekly rollout on CBC's YouTube channel. It was then broadcasted on CBC TV in January and February of this year.

Anderson has been inducted into Canada's Scarborough Walk of Fame, honoured with the Key to the Canadian Consulate in Los Angeles for championing underrepresented talent and communities, and most recently was honoured with the Career Achievement Award at the Toronto Black Film Festival.

Anderson splits his time between Toronto and Los Angeles.

OPENING REFLECTION AND MÉTIS PRAYER

PAUL IRVINE

Senator of the Toronto & York Region Métis Council

PAUL IRVINE is Senator of the Toronto & York Métis Council (TYRMC) –a chartered community of the Métis Nation of Ontario (MNO). It is composed of elected volunteers, who work to provide local MNO citizens with opportunities to connect with each other and their culture.

Paul is Métis of the Historic Verified Métis Family Lines Vasseur-Longlade and Charles Longlade; Michilimackinac Island, Drummond Island, and Penetanguishene. Many portages and open water crossings have landed him in Tkaronto.

Since 1995, he has been and continues to be an entertainment paralegal with Sanderson Entertainment Law in Toronto. He has worked with numerous creative individuals and companies throughout Canada and the world, reviewing, drafting, and negotiating agreements.

He has been a professional musician (flute, sax, keyboards, vocals) since the mid-1970s, recording and performing with a wide variety of acts including Corey Hart, Ronnie Hawkins, Georgie Fame, The Partland Brothers, and Goddo. He has been involved in all aspects of the recording process, from songwriting and composing, to engineering, producing, releasing, and promoting music, including his own.

He is also a licensed pilot with a life-long love of aviation.

NICHOLAS DELBAERE-SAWCHUK

Fiddle Player

NICHOLAS DELBAERE-SAWCHUK grew up in Red River, Manitoba, weaving together his Métis and Ukrainian heritage through the fiddle. As a performing artist and educator, he has dedicated his career to sharing Métis music and history–a commitment recognized with a 2012 Canadian Folk Music Award for Best Traditional Album. Beyond the stage, Nicholas offers interactive workshops in schools, enabling students to experience Métis culture through music and storytelling. His performances include a solo appearance with the Thunder Bay Symphony Orchestra, where he premiered a Métis-inspired work created in collaboration with Ukrainian composer Larysa Kuzmenko. Through his diverse engagements, Nicholas contributes to the preservation and contemporary expression of Métis culture.

PRESIDENT'S AWARD FOR TEACHING EXCELLENCE

ALAN RESNICK
Recipient

ALAN RESNICK is a writer, director, three-time Gemini Award winner for comedy writing, and a Writer's Guild of Canada award recipient. He was a showrunner for two Comedy Network series, and a writer on This Hour Has 22 Minutes, Total Drama Island, Stoked, Jimmy Two-Shoes, Rocket Monkeys, Ruby Gloom, and Koati–the animated adventure-comedy feature film starring Sofia Vergara. For the past couple of years, Alan served on the jury for the International Emmys' Sir Peter Ustinov Scriptwriting Award. Alan is passionate about teaching comedy and guiding emerging talent. He has been a mentor at the National Screen Institute and for the BIPOC Kids TV Writing Bootcamp. Since 2020, Alan has been a comedy writing instructor at TFS and has relished working with, and guiding, the young writers on their journey as artists.

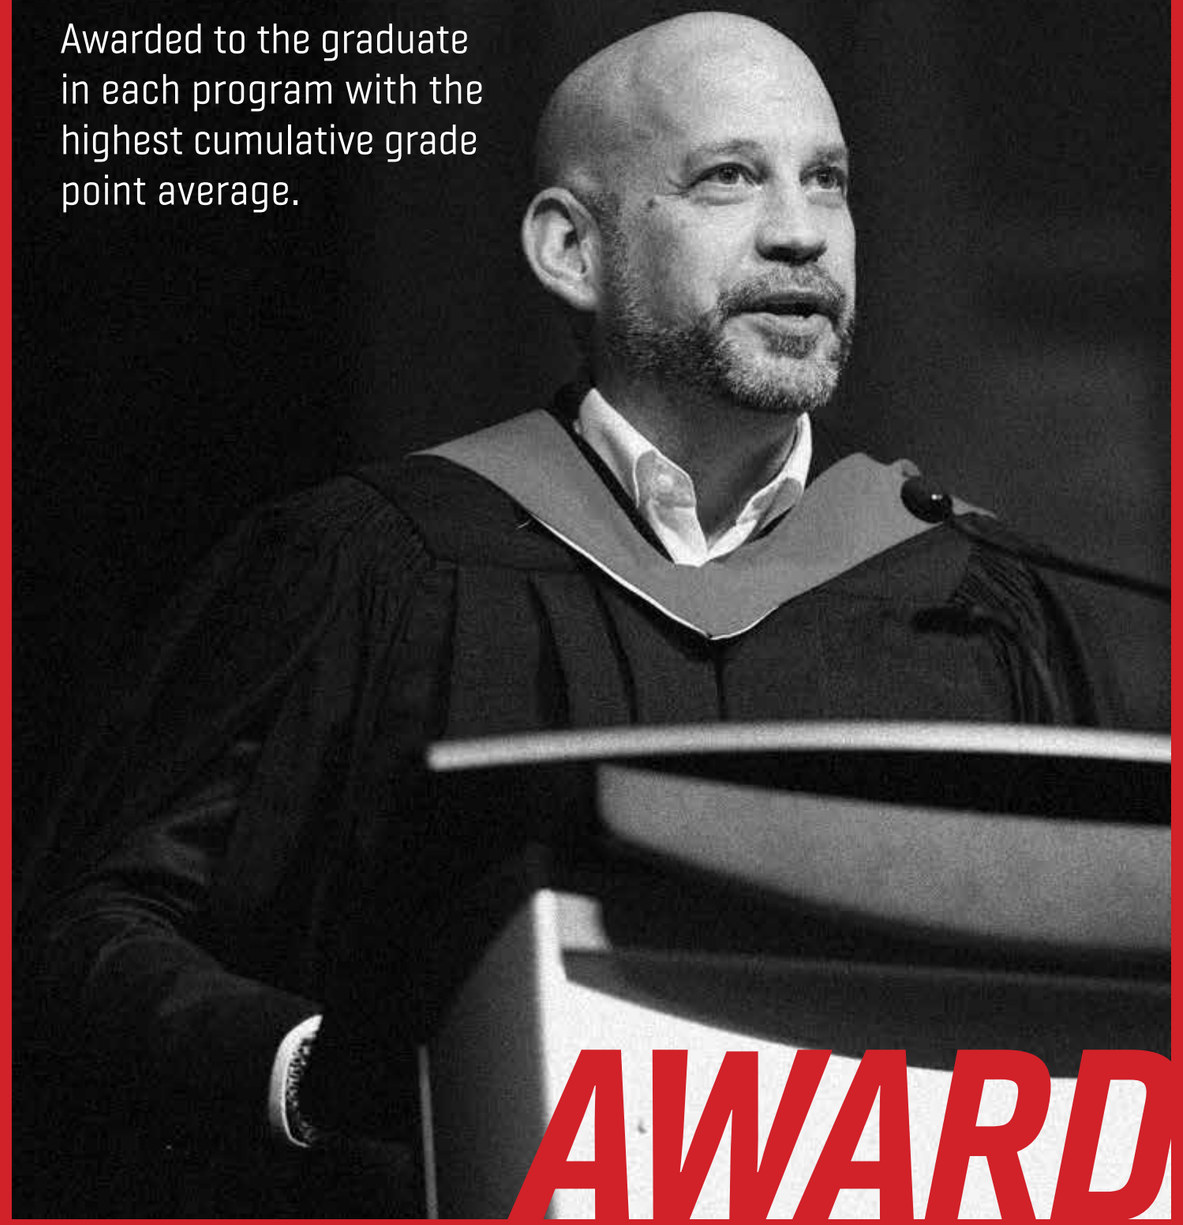

ROSANNA SARACINO
Honouree

ROSANNA SARACINO is an award-winning educator, theatre and film artist, producer, director, writer, and curriculum leader whose career spans more than 25 years across professional practice and post-secondary education. She has served as head coordinator of an acting department at a private post-secondary arts institution, has led curriculum development, mentored faculty and students, and helped shape the next generation of instructors, performers, and storytellers across various professional and academic arts institutions. Alongside her educational work, she has built an accomplished career producing, directing, writing, and script editing for theatre, film, conferences, and interdisciplinary arts initiatives. She also works as a coach, facilitator, and consultant with artists, creative teams, leaders, and arts and corporate professionals. She supports psychologically safe, inclusive, and high-performing environments through practices grounded in emotional intelligence, communication, boundaries, and consent.

Recognized for her innovative and deeply human approach to teaching, Rosanna's work explores the intersection of artistic rigour and psychological safety, integrating emotional intelligence, consent and boundary practices, and inclusion into creative education. She believes that education is not about shaping students into who we think they should become, but creating the conditions in which they can discover their own voice, trust their instincts, and take meaningful creative risks as they learn and refine their technique and artistry. By bridging professional practice with relational, student-centred pedagogy, she empowers emerging artists to develop not only as skilled professionals, but as courageous, compassionate, and collaborative human beings.

PROGRAM AWARDS

BEST ACTOR/ ACTRESS AWARD

AWARD RECIPIENT: Yuliya Shcherbak
SPONSOR: Jolt 390 Photography

The TFS Best Actor/Actress is voted on by the acting program faculty and goes to the student who has shown the greatest commitment and best performance skills with respect to the craft of acting, both in their studies and in extra-curricular projects on campus. This recipient performed truthfully and at the highest standards during studio work, on film sets, and in final showcases.

FILM PRODUCTION TRAILBLAZER AWARD

AWARD RECIPIENT: Cullen Smith
SPONSOR: Canada Film Equipment

The CFE: Film Production Trailblazer Award recognizes a student who embodies the spirit of initiative, determination, and professionalism. This honour is awarded to an individual who not only brings passion and persistence to their own work, but also proves to be an invaluable collaborator–showing respect, reliability, and leadership in every crew environment. The recipient demonstrates both independence and teamwork, balancing self-driven excellence with a commitment to creating a positive and productive experience for instructors and peers alike. This award celebrates a student whose proactive approach and collaborative spirit set a strong example of what it means to thrive in the film industry.

VIDEO PRODUCTION EXCELLENCE AWARD

AWARD RECIPIENT: Jessica O'Neal
SPONSOR: Vistek

The VPOL Award for Video Production Excellence celebrates a student whose passion, drive, and self-starting spirit exemplify what it means to be a filmmaker. This honour recognizes an individual who consistently demonstrates curiosity, initiative, and determination–someone always seeking out new ideas, projects, and opportunities for growth. The recipient is not only capable of conceptualizing and executing creative visions independently, but also thrives in collaboration, bringing energy and commitment to every stage of the filmmaking process. This award acknowledges a student whose dedication to the craft elevates both their own work and the work of those around them.

The recipient of this award excelled academically throughout the program. They demonstrated exceptional leadership, collaborated with peers, and showcased advanced programming abilities, reflecting both creativity and technical mastery in game development.

STUDENT GRADUATION SPEAKER

SANA EHTASHAM

Writing for Film & TV Graduate

SANA EHTASHAM is a writer, director, filmmaker, producer, fashion designer, and creative storyteller based in Ontario. She graduated from Toronto Film School's Writing for Film & TV program with a 4.24 CGPA and received repeated recognition on the President's List and Honours List throughout her studies. During her time at TFS, Sana became actively involved in the school community through Campus Council, Student Activity Council, peer tutoring, and cross-program collaboration. She also developed and produced her greenlit thesis film, The Tea Party, which gave her hands-on experience bringing a creative project from concept to production. She has also worked as a producer with production and acting students, gaining practical experience in teamwork, leadership, and creative problem-solving. Her background in fashion design further shapes her visual storytelling and creative perspective. Sana is passionate about creating meaningful work that connects with audiences and believes creativity is a lifelong process of growth, courage, and finding one's own voice.
